1. Round 1

1.1. Reviewer 1

Reviewer:

Reframe the study's objective to explicitly state the hypothesis or primary research question, enhancing the focus and clarity of the research aim.

Incorporate recent studies to strengthen the literature review, ensuring it covers the latest developments in the field of domestic violence and mental health research.

Provide more detailed descriptions of the data collection process to enhance the reproducibility of the research.

Discuss the generalizability of the findings based on the demographic and geographic characteristics of the sample.

Clarify the choice of statistical methods and justify their appropriateness for the analysis of the data collected.

Improve the presentation of the results with clearer tables and possibly graphical representations to aid in data interpretation.

Deepen the analysis of how religious orientation interacts with other socio-demographic variables in influencing domestic violence.

In the discussion, better integrate how these findings relate to or challenge existing theories or previous research.

Sharpen the conclusions to directly address the research questions posed, highlighting the implications for practice and policy.

1.2. Reviewer 2

Reviewer:

Ensure the manuscript fully complies with the journal's submission guidelines, particularly regarding format and structure.

Ensure all figures, tables, and supplementary material are correctly referenced in the text.

Include a few key terms in the abstract to enhance its standalone comprehensibility and searchability.

Strengthen the introduction by more clearly setting the stage for the research, including a brief discussion of key concepts.

Clarify the hypotheses tested and the rationale behind them, linking them directly to the research questions.

Authors revised the manuscript and uploaded the document.
